

Technical Solutions for Applying Compost Extract

We advise farmers on practical ways to adapt their existing machinery for applying biologically active compost extract.

Depending on your equipment and requirements, we can help with seed drills, planters, sprayers, irrigation systems and water cannons, as well as dispersers and seed-coating solutions.

Our focus is on creating systems that are simple, reliable and gentle on the biology, while reducing the risk of blockages and unnecessary downtime.

Through our experience and many trials, we have also learned how strongly weather and application conditions can influence the results. There are suitable methods for many different conditions, but knowing when to apply, and when not to, can save valuable compost extract, time and resources.

We do not offer a one-size-fits-all solution. We look at your machinery, your farming system and your requirements to find a practical solution that works for your farm.
